

Is It Safe To Close Your Doors?

Is your forklift ready to work inside? We'll test for dangerous emissions levels

As the weather gets colder, many warehouses will shut their doors and windows and use their forklifts inside. Poor ventilation can lead to a lethal buildup of colorless and odorless CO and CO2 gases. To keep this from happening, our team will conduct an emissions test to make sure the amounts of both produced by your forklift are within the acceptable range.

Handle Wet, Slippery Conditions

We have the best forklift tires for the winter season

If your tires are worn down or don't have much tread left, then you should replace them with new ones before wet, icy winter conditions start. In addition to new tires, we also offer forklift tire chains for even more traction.

Is Charging Your Forklift Slowing Down Your Operation?

The Heli CPD25SQ makes it more efficient

This forklift lets you work longer on each charge, because it has a larger battery capacity than previous models. Plus, with a lithium ion battery, you can charge your forklift eight times faster than a lead acid battery with no cool down period after charging.

Lithium ion battery and charger included!
